Summary

Facebook has become a force to be reckoned with in the Middle East and North Africa and the platform can now claim 15 million users as of May 2010. Whilst Facebook saw strong early growth in 2008/2009 from English and French speaking users across the region, Facebook's decision to add an Arabic interface in March 2009 has opened up access to a whole new demographic of Internet users and added 3.5 million Arabic users over the past year. Egypt and Saudi Arabia's Facebook communities have seen the strongest growth among Arabic users during the past year with each adding 1.1 million Arabic language interface users. We expect the number of Arabic language Facebook users in Saudi to surpass the number of English users very soon.

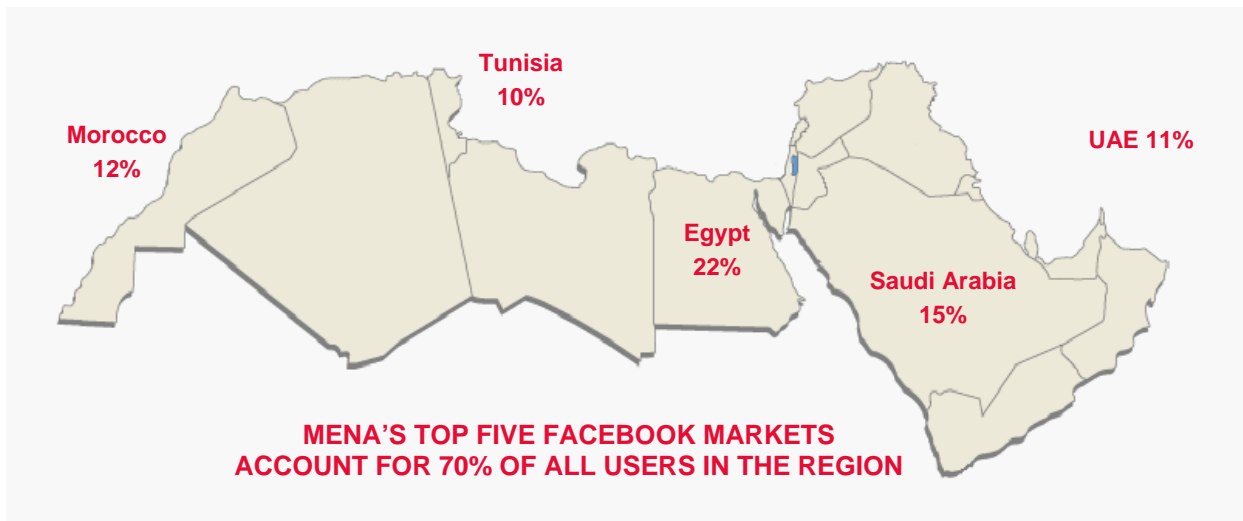

However, with the strong expectation that the weight of numbers will move from English language users to Arabic language users in a number of key MENA Facebook markets, today's reality is that just 23% of users across the region use Facebook's Arabic interface. So, those seeking to make the most of the Facebook platform are advised to keep up-to-date with its changing demographics.

Here are some of the key Facebook demographics covered in this report:

- There are now 15 million Facebook users in the Middle East & North Africa (this figure excludes Iran, Israel, Pakistan and Turkey).
- 50% of MENA Facebook users have selected their primary language for using Facebook as English, with 25% preferring French and just 23% Arabic.
- Only 37% of Facebook users in MENA are female (compared with 56% in the USA and 52% in the UK). Only Bahrain and Lebanon Facebook communities approach gender equality with female users accounting for about 44% of total users.
- MENA's top five Facebook country markets, Egypt, Morocco, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, account for 70% of all users in the region.
- The GCC has five million Facebook users, which Saudi Arabia and the UAE representing 45% and 31% of that total respectively.
- North Africa has 7.7 million Facebook users, with Egypt accounting for 3.4 million users (or 44% of all North Africa users). Egypt has the largest Facebook community in MENA.
- Francophone countries Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia together account for 3.7 million French speaking Facebook users, equivalent to nearly 25% of all MENA users.
- Algeria, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon, Morocco, Palestine, Tunisia and Yemen all have Facebook communities with more than 50% of users below the age of 25 years old.
- The UAE has the oldest Facebook community in MENA with 41% of users being over 30 years old, 28% being 25-29 years old and 31% being under 25 years old.

Facebook users in MENA

As of May 2010, Facebook had 15 million users across the Middle East & North Africa (MENA), with 70% of those users coming from Egypt, Morocco, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Tunisia and the United Arab Emirates. North Africa accounts for 51% of MENA's total Facebook population, the GCC for 34%, whilst the Levant and Iraq combined account for 14%. Egypt, the state with the region's largest population and largest number of Internet users also has the greatest number of Facebook users: 3.4 million.

The Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates account for the vast majority of Facebook users in the GCC, with 45% and 31% share respectively. In North Africa, Tunisia comes top in terms of penetration with 44% of all Internet users using Facebook and accounting for a 20% share of total North African Facebook users. Overall, Egypt accounts for 44% of total Facebook users in North Africa.

Language & gender

English predominates across the Middle East and North Africa as the primary Facebook language, with the exception of Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia which are 80-95% French language users. Libya, Palestine, Saudi Arabia have more even split between the number of users whose primary language for Facebook is Arabic and those which have selected Arabic. Although Facebook has added some 3.5 million Arabic language users during the past 12 months, Yemen is the only country with a clear majority of Arabic Facebook users.

ONLY 37% OF FACEBOOK USERS IN MENA ARE WOMEN

Bahrain and Lebanon are the only Facebook communities that approach gender equality, with female users accounting for 44% of total users. For the rest of the region, Facebook remains a male dominated past-time

Age & Relationship Status

Eight MENA territories have Facebook communities that are more than 50% below the age of 25 years old: Algeria, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon, Morocco, Palestine, Tunisia and Yemen. The two countries with the oldest Facebook communities, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates, also have the highest percentage of users that have selected 'Married' as their Facebook 'Relationship Status'.

Egypt – 3.4 million

Egypt's Facebook community is growing at more than 100% per annum and now stands as MENA's largest, despite being adopted by only 20% of Egyptian Internet users. Nearly 2 million of Egypt's Facebook users are under 25 years of age, representing 61% of its total users. Usage of Facebook's Arabic interface has grown sharply over the past year, but 65% of Egyptian users prefer to use the English interface.

Methodology

Here's a quick run down on where this report's statistics came from and how they were calculated.

- The definition of Middle East and North Africa (MENA) used for the purposes of producing this report was the Middle East and African countries and territories of the Sultanate of Oman, Bahrain, Qatar, Kuwait, United Arab Emirates, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Iraq, Lebanon, Jordan, Palestine, Libya, Algeria, Tunisia, Morocco and Egypt. These are all Arab league members of the Middle East and North Africa, and the report excludes statistics for Iran, Israel, Pakistan and Turkey, which are all sometimes included as Middle East in research reports.
- The Arab league states of Comoros, Djibouti, Mauritania, Somalia and Sudan are not included in this report. Facebook doesn't provide any user data for Comoros, Somalia or Sudan. In case you're interested, Djibouti has 28,740 Facebook users and Mauritania 25,960 Facebook users.
- All Facebook user statistics were calculated from data taken from Facebook.com's advertiser statistics between May 12th and 17th 2010.
- Only Arabic, English and French language preferences were analysed. Percentages for language preference were calculated from the number of language users divided by the number of total users.
- The percentage of Male or Female users were calculated by dividing the number of Male or Female users by the combined sum of users that have selected Male or Female as their gender on Facebook.
- The percentage statistics for ages of Facebook users were calculated from the number of users identified with a particular age bracket and the total number of users for which age data has been made available by Facebook.
- The percentage of Married Facebook users was calculated from the number of users that have selected 'Married' as their 'Relationship Status' and the total number of users for the country.
- Figures used for Middle East and North Africa Internet adoption and populations were taken from www.internetworldstats.com
- The site rank listed in the country profiles denotes the popularity that Facebook.com has compared with other sites accessible in that country as ranked by Alexa.com

Note: Facebook.com advertiser statistics are updated in real-time by Facebook and sometimes seem to fluctuate significantly day-to-day. We double-checked our results using facebakers.com and re-checked some of our country data with Facebook as a result to get the final statistics used.
